THE PRESIDENT.

His General Condition is Not Reassuring.

And the Symptoms Are Slightly Aggravated.

Temperature and Pulse and Respiration More Frequent.

There is Increase of Anxiety Concerning Him.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

ELBERON, September 16.—At the examination of the president at 5:30 this morning his temperature was 98 6 10; pulse 104; respiration 21. The febrile rise during the night was not as pronounced as it usually has been but there was at times considerable acceleration of the pulse. He however slept comparatively well and took stimulants and nourishment as directed. The cough was somewhat more troublesome during the first part of the night and expectoration rather more purulent. The discharge from the wound is less abundant and not quite as healthy in appearance. The pulse however has more volume and his general condition does not seem to have materially changed in any respect.

THE SITUATION NOT REASSURING.

ELBERON, September 16.—The situation this morning was less favorable and grave anxiety exists as to whether the president will be able to overcome the results of his extreme debility. Bed sores have again made their appearance, and the discharge from the wound is very unsatisfactory.

VERY UNFAVORABLE.

ELBERON, N. J., September 16.—While there are no new complications in the president's case his general condition indicates that he has not made any gain during the last forty-eight hours. In fact there has been a slight falling off. The wound has assumed a more unhealthy appearance, and the discharge has been growing more unsatisfactory. Small bed-sores have again made their appearance. Doctor Boynton says he still had hopes the president will be able to pull through. His mind has been somewhat disturbed during the day as well as during the night, and there is still a continuance of suppuration of the parotid gland. On the whole the situation is one of anxiety. The surgeons and attendants however express themselves in hopeful terms. Colonel Rockwell, one of the president's attendants, is authority for the statement that perspiration, which has been one of the annoying features of the president's case, has reappeared. Col. Rockwell and Swaim entertain different opinions and declare it has not reappeared. It is reliably ascertained that the president's pulse reached 130 during the night, notwithstanding the fact that the febrile rise was not so pronounced as usual.

SWAIM'S OPINION.

Swaim, in reviewing the situation, did not think the president started in as favorably this morning as he did yesterday, but said there is no occasion for alarm. He was of the opinion that the depression was only temporary. Colonel Swaim thinks that when the president has bright days each one adds a little to the preceding one and that the gain in strength is manifest from time to time. He attributes the weekly depression of the president to sympathy caused by the shock of the wound. He does not think the president reflects upon the occasion of his wound any more during the latter part of the week than during the former. When spoken to about the hallucination of the president, Colonel Swaim said he has wanderings of mind continued to a certain extent, but they were generally of brief duration. He and Rockwell believe the president will rally.

HIS CONDITION AT 1.10 A. M.

ELBERON, September 16, 1.10 a. m.—The president's condition at this hour is unchanged. MacVeagh considers the case as warranting extreme anxiety, but maintains that while there is no particular point which can be said to have developed to an alarming extent the general condition which includes the extreme debility of patient is necessarily one of grave apprehension.

THE LANCET'S OPINION.

LONDON, September 16.—The Lancet says: "The reason of the trouble with President Garfield's lungs is the hypostatic condition of congestion at their bases because of depressed respiration arising from lung recumbency. Sitting up will probably give much relief but until all signs of affection of the lungs have disappeared the hopeful prognosis constantly cabled here is not well founded, although it may prove a lucky guess.

A HIGHER PULSE.

ELBERON, September 16.—At the most examination of the patient's condition his pulse was 114, temperature 99.6, respiration 24. At this hour the pulse is 108, temperature not much above normal. The patient was not placed in his chair to-day on account of the febrile rise.

ANOTHER CRISIS FEARED.

NEW YORK September 16, All specials from Long Branch are of gloomy character and express the belief that another crisis in the president's case is near at hand.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, September 16 9 p. m. At the examination of the president at 12 to-day the temperature was 99.8, pulse 116, respiration 21. At the evening dressing, 5.30 p. m., the temperature was 98.2 pulse, 101, respiration 22. A slight febrile rise occurred at 11 a. m., and had entirely subsided at noon. The condition of the wound remains unchanged. The cough has not been so frequent or persistent, but sputa still remains purulent. Nourishment and stimulants have been given in increased quantities without discomfort. Altogether his general condition cannot be said to be improved.

BOYNTON REVIEWS THE SITUATION.

LONG BRANCH, September 16.—The day opened disagreeably. A heavy northeast wind set in yesterday, followed by a driving rain during the night which has continued at intervals to-day. Elberon looks deserted. The only persons seen out doors are the attendants at Franklin cottage. The condition of the president throughout the day was a source of extreme anxiety. Boynton occupied the room adjoining the president's last night and noticed he coughed considerably during the early part of the night. The doctor says the president is suffering from the effects of blood poisoning. "I hope he will overcome the extreme loss of strength and rally but it is a question whether he will. I see a very gradual, sure descent in his case. He has his ups and downs, his bright days and dull days but looking back and following the case to the present I have been discouraged with the outlook to-day but have not lost hope and will not, as I think he is going to pull through, but it will be tedious and wearisome work for him. The wound is commencing to look less favorably since yesterday morning and has grown worse ever since. The discharge is thin and watery, indicating extreme weakness. There are no indications of other complications with the exception of the reappearance of bed sores. I do not think the patient would be able in his present critical condition to undergo another complication such as he has already encountered."

MACVEAGH'S DISPATCH.

ELBERON, September 16.

To Minister Lowell, London:

There has been no marked change in the president's condition but it is not at this hour reassuring. The different symptoms are almost all aggravated. Temperature and pulse have fluctuated more than usual and respiration is rather more frequent, while the character of the discharges continues to be unsatisfactory. There is therefore a sensible increase of anxiety.

[Signed] MACVEAGH.

NOTHING HOPEFUL FROM THE DOCTORS.

LONG BRANCH, September 16.—Attorney General MacVeagh to-night notified the members of the cabinet of the president's condition. The telegram was substantially the same as that sent to Lowell. The cabinet are expected at Elberon to-morrow. It is reported the attorney general expressed himself as extremely anxious about the president's condition but said he, there is in fact nothing particularly alarming in his symptoms, beyond the extreme weakness which prevails. Ups and downs will be liable to occur from the poisonous condition of the patient's blood and the chances are the case will be a very tedious and apprehensive one remaining about as now for some time and about all that can be done is to watch and wait. He thinks the president could not stand another relapse caused by serious complication.

BLISS SAID

to-night there had been little if any change. Discharge from the wound to-night was no worse than this morning and it can't be said to be better. A clot of blood came away with the pus to-night which may have colored it some. There was febrile rise from 11 until 12; from 2 until 6 the president was comparatively comfortable. The pulse did not vary more than two or three beats per minute. At six o'clock while we were preparing the evening bulletin another rise occurred which still continues. To what it will amount or how serious it will be we cannot now predict. The president is troubled somewhat in mind but if we ask him a question he will answer it. As an instance of his clearness of mind the doctor illustrated how he took the evening temperature and said he remarked to Colonel Swaim when the thermometer had been standing nine minutes that he could not get the temperature above the normal range, whereupon the president said, "Well, sir, you have only one minute more." "How do you know that?" inquired the doctor. The president pointed to the clock and indicated that he had his mind concentrated upon the time the doctor commenced taking the temperature and had followed the minutes correctly. The doctor said while he was with the president to-day he made use of an expression which seemed to indicate his mind was wandering a little and that Dr. Hamilton also states this evening he had noticed a similar remark when he was with the president.

THE PRESIDENT COMPLAINS

at times of being weary and tired. If the process of repair had continued in the president's case without interruption a few days longer the patient would have moved into a high scale of improvement. "How do you view the general situation to-night?" "The conditions are more hazardous than at any time since the patient was at Long Branch."

The president still looks forward to going to Mentor and has talked some about it.

Agnew said there was apparently some mistake regarding the consultation of yesterday. That Bliss had not offered objection to the introduction of "septic" condition of the president into the official bulletins and he desired that the correction should be made in justice to all concerned. Hamilton said: "I refer you to the bulletins for a full and complete exposition of his condition. I would not expect the public would interpret it as a favorable bulletin, or as an indication of favorable progress. We have said in the bulletins everything we deemed necessary to enable an intelligent person to form a correct opinion. We have concealed nothing that we deem unfavorable."

At 10 o'clock to-night Bliss said the president's pulse had decreased to 110 and the temperature was not very much above the normal and notwithstanding the disturbance of the evening he apprehended a reasonably quiet night although he could not say he expected any marked improvement in the morning. The president's condition causes here a feeling of despondency. People regard the condition as such to put in question his ability to rally from his present state of lung trouble and exhaustion.

Governor Evans' Schemes.

DENVER, September 16.—The Republican says: Don Miguel A. Otero, of Las Vegas, N. M., is in the city. In the course of a conversation with a reporter he admitted he had come here at the invitation of Governor Evans, and that they had done considerable talking about the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the southern line of Colorado to Socorro, N. M. The project has already been considered by New Mexican capitalists, and Evans is desirous of utilizing it as a connection of the Denver & New Orleans. No organization has yet been formed but Otero presumed that articles of incorporation would be prepared soon after his return to Las Vegas next week. The name of the organization will probably be "The Denver, Las Vegas & Socorro Railroad Co." The amount of capital has not yet been decided upon. Otero expected the connection to be made with a road recently incorporated to build a line from Socorro southwest along the Black range through the Mogollon district, along the Gila river to Tucson, thence to some port south of Guaymas on the Gulf of California. No alliance has yet been made with the Denver and New Orleans road, but he expected great things from the New Mexican scheme in any event.

Accident at Golden.

GOLDEN, Col., September 16.—Charles Anderson, aged 9 years, was fatally hurt yesterday on the railroad near here. He attempted to jump off a train while it was in motion, and was thrown under the wheels. His right arm and right leg were severed from the body, and he died in a few hours.

Buena Vista Items.

BUENA VISTA, Col., September 16. Kelly's jewelry store was robbed last night of eight gold watches and chains. Value, $1,000.

The district court convened on Tuesday. The case of the people vs. James Bush was continued. No other important criminal business was transacted. The latter will be taken up next week. Several minor trials are on the tapis.

CLAY WILSON.

Proceedings in His Trial for Murder of Jim Moon.

DENVER, September 16. The trial of Clay Wilson for the killing of Jim Moon was begun in the district court this morning before Judge Elliot. I. E. Barnum and Judge Miller appeared for the state, and Messrs. Browne and Putnam for the defense. There was not a large attendance, and but little interest was manifested in the case, except by those directly connected with it and the sporting fraternity of the city. An hour and a half was consumed in empanelling a jury, eight jurymen being challenged. One of them was a barber who had shaved Moon frequently, and who had formed a decided opinion in regard to the case. Another was a man who had once been employed by Moon in his gambling house. It was noticed that there were but one or two jurymen who had not known Moon well, either intimately or by sight. None of them had known Wilson. Wilson, who has been out on bail since the time of the killing, and who has not changed even in his manner of dress since that time, watched the proceedings with interest, although he did not by any particular anxiety. The jury was finally empanelled as follows: James A. Lord, W. M. Crull, Dennis Mullen, Jr., Hanford Harris (colored), J. Ruble, Jacob Miller, D. W. LeClaire, J. C. Lehner, Wm. H. Fletcher, Morris Smith, C. J. Goss, Theodore Nott.

In his statement of the case Gen. Browne said: "This case will be unlike most homicide trials in that it will not be necessary to prove the killing. The defendant killed Moon at the time stated and in the manner specified in the indictment. That he committed any crime in doing so, he denies, or that he violated any laws of God or man or of society, he denies; but that he did that that was not only excusable but commendable, he asserts and will prove to a moral certainty. He expects to establish the fact that at the time this act was committed, this man Moon—whose mission it appeared to be to prey upon his fellows—had sought to take his life, and that had it not been for the interference of friends he would have been killed. This man not only would have killed him then, but threatened to kill him, whenever he should meet him on the streets. We shall show that Moon was armed and had made a motion towards his hip pocket—a motion very significant in this country—when to save his life Wilson fired the fatal shot. If this shall be proven, we expect you not only to acquit the defendant but to vindicate his character before the people."

Court then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Upon the reconvening of court the examination of witnesses was begun, James Slack being the first put upon the stand. He testified that the shooting was done by Clay Wilson at Fisher & Slack's saloon on Larimer street, above Sixteenth. Wilson stood in the bar-room and fired four shots, inside the fly doors. He had walked from the side over to the doors and pushed them open. He went out at one and returned immediately at the other with his pistol in his hand. Moon was not more than an arm's length distant from him when the first shot was fired.

On cross examination Mr. Slack said Wilson and London were standing at the bar when Moon entered. He said he would slap London's mouth, and reached toward his hip-pocket and struck at London, and then ordered the latter to go out. Moon was apparently very angry. Wilson had said nothing up to this time, except to say in answer to Moon's question that he did not want any of the fight. Moon jerked twice at his pocket, but did not pull anything out. When the second shot was fired Moon had hold of Wilson with both hands.

Barnard M. Slack, one of the proprietors of the restaurant at that time, corroborated the testimony of the preceding witness in the principal points of evidence.

There was considerable difficulty in making the court and jury understand plainly how the screen doors at the restaurant when the shooting occurred worked. The prosecution attempted to show that Wilson used the door as a shield to hide in as he came in, while the defense tried to show that it was merely the swinging of the door after having been opened by Wilson on his way out. W. Slack said the first he saw after Wilson left the bar-room was the door swinging back and Wilson entering with his pistol in his hand.

MINING STOCKS.

More Activity and Higher Prices in Some Cases.

NEW YORK, September 16.—The Mining Associated Press reports much greater activity in mining stocks than for some time and fluctuations have been frequent, though in most cases not wide. Comstocks have been very strong in sympathy with the San Francisco market but much doubt is expressed here concerning the continuance of the boom. Little stock is taken by old speculators in the reported strike in Sierra Nevada. Mining stocks in general outside of Comstocks are considered low and indications point to higher prices in the near future. The new water pipes for State Line have all been shipped and the competition of the pipe line is anxiously awaited as an advance is then expected. Leadville stocks are coming to the front again and show a marked improvement. Chrysolite is leading the advance and sold up to-day to $7.50. Bullion receipts in New York for the week from the mines is $308,264, and the sales of mining stocks in both exchanges is about 800,000 shares.

Another Railroad Affairs Inspection.

NEW YORK, September 16.—The World's Washington special says: "The secretary of the interior is not satisfied with the inspection of the Pacific railroads made some weeks ago by Theophilus French late auditor of railroad accounts. His conduct in the matter of inspection of the Central Pacific threw discredit, it is thought, on his reports respecting other roads, and his sudden decapitation prevented his formulating the results of his annual report. To ascertain the condition of the Pacific railroads, Secretary Kirkwood has sent west a trustworthy man from the office of railroad accounts, who will embody the results of his inspections in a report to be submitted to congress. His report concerning the affairs of the Central Pacific may differ from that of French."

Hartmann's Warning.

NEW YORK, September 16. A Tribune editorial says: "Mr. Shevitch, who is in charge of the alleged Hartmann, says that the world will be startled by the events which will occur in Russia within the next two months. Matters which have been a long time maturing there are now ripe, and the result will be of lively interest to everybody."

A Convict's Attempt.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 16.—A Portland dispatch this morning says: Edward Mordaunt, an escaped convict who it was supposed leaped overboard from the steamer Columbia below Astoria, was found stowed away in the vessel. Mordaunt on being discovered, leaped into the river and attempted to swim ashore. He was seized with cramps and shouted for help, was rescued and brought on board when it was found that he had broken off his shackles. He was sent to the penitentiary at Salem.

Arizona Affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 16.—A Tucson dispatch says that a special from Wilcox to the Citizen says: Permission to enlist any more Mohaves or Yumas as scouts has been refused by Agent Tiffany to Colonel Biddle. Tiffany's refusal is uncalled for, as scouts are indispensable. A squaw came in to the subagency yesterday and reported a party of hostiles, 64 strong, well armed and with a supply of cartridges fortified on Apache and San Carlos trail on the north side of Black river near the scene of the recent Apache raid. Some hostiles came close to the reservation and tried to have a talk with the reservation Indians night before last. It is thought that the hostiles have been lately moving toward Cibicu.

Christiancy Robbed.

WASHINGTON, September 16.—A casket containing six thousand dollars worth of jewelry, etc., which was entrusted to Senator Christiancy for safe-keeping was stolen from his room at the National hotel to-day.

STATE FAIR.

Another Perfect Day and the Attendance Very Large.

The Races Witnessed by an Immense Throng, and Great Satisfaction Given.

Special to the GAZETTE:

DENVER, September 16.—The weather to-day has again been all that could be desired. The attendance has been the largest of any in the week, and it is estimated that fully eight thousand people were on the grounds. During the races every seat in the grand stand was occupied, and the track was literally fenced in by vehicles of every description.

The sports of the day began with the shooting tournament which commenced at half-past ten in the morning and was for special premiums offered "between military companies and clubs using military rifles." The distance was 200 yards, off-hand. First premium, silver goblet, value $30; donated by A. B. Ingalls; second, an improved Sharp's rifle, value $20, by J. F. Lowe; third, a silver medal by the association, value $10. The following teams competed:

Breckenridge Rifles, Co. I, 3d battalion infantry, C. N. G. J. B. Thompson, captain; Sergeant Geo. H. Bressler; Privates Chas. J. Godbold, W. A. Eberly, Geo. Y. Astel, John P. Eckland, Oliver Grove and C. L. Dow.

Mitchell Guards—E. J. Burke, captain; Lieutenant J. H. Dean; 1st Sergeant Peter Smith; 2d Sergeant Thomas O'Connor; 3d Sergeant S. McNamara; Privates F. H. Decker and H. Thompson.

Denver Zouaves, Co. D, 1st battalion infantry—L. Wilder, captain; Sergeants A. Banks, G. Graham and J. Baum; Musician Hodges; Privates E. Prosser, O. I. Prescott and Wm. Caumbell.

Tabor Sharpshooters—J. M. Anderson, captain; J. G. Anderson, Jr., W. M. Anderson, J. P. Lower, G. W. Lower, A. W. Peterson, R. C. Moore and H. R. Lowe.

Considerable feeling existed at the beginning of the match, and one of the teams shot under protest, the claim being made that a team had picked up two quick shots just previous to the match and used them contrary to rule and precedent.

Following are the scores: Tabors 322, Breckenridge 316, Mitchells 277, Zouaves 273.

The shooting was very rapid and under favorable auspices, the gentlest breeze imaginable being existent. A little greater activity than desirable was enforced, from the necessity of closing the match before the beginning of the races.

THE RACES.

The attraction of the afternoon was the six mile ladies' race which was called at 2 o'clock. The starters were:

Miss Annie Dickson.
Mrs. Davis.
Mrs. Remnacer.

Mrs. Davis started in the lead, but was soon passed by Miss Dickson. After that first one was in the lead and then the other, and it continued in this way. Mrs. Davis was credited with making the most and fastest changes, but her horses seemed be very much slower than Miss Dickson's who changed six times, Mrs. Davis eight times and Mrs. Remnacer seven times. It is therefore seen that the winner—Miss Dickson changed less and rode better, her time for the six miles being 12m. 54s., that of Mrs. Davis, who received second prize, 13m. 1s., and Mrs. Remnacer 14m. 20s. The purse was $500 in gold, divided into first $300; second $125; third $75.

The next race was trotting of the 2:50 class. Purse $400. First $225; second $100; third $50 and fourth $25. The following horses started:

Big Ike, by Roop & Leyburn.
Elcho, by J. M. Hughes.
Dan Brown, by J. Walker.
Teazer, by M. C. Wilbur.

In the pools Big Ike sold for $50 against $30 for Teazer as second choice and $15 for the field. Just as the horses were preparing to start and Mr. Wilbur was turning around to score with his horse Teazer he was run into by a marshal by the name of Hawley, on horseback. Mr. Wilbur's sulky was upset and run into the fence, tearing off a wheel and Teazer started on a dead run and went clear around the track with the sulky on one wheel without being stopped, although attempts were made by people around the track to do so. On the second time around and while on the back stretch the sulky tore loose from Teazer and he ran out off the track in among the vehicles and was stopped. In consequence of this accident this race was postponed and the horses for the next race, which was a pacing race, free for all, was called. This was for a special purse, and the following horses started:

Sucker State, by George Holmes.
Dustin, by C. D. Holmes.
Mountain Maid, by S. E. Hoskins.

Mr. Wilbur, who was not in the least hurt by being thrown, drove Dustin in the race. The driver of Sucker State was fined $5 for not scoring as he was instructed to.

First Heat—The horses started with Dustin in the lead, but he was passed by Mountain Maid on the first half, but in turn passed again by Dustin soon after, which lead he maintained, winning the heat easily, with Mountain Maid second, and Sucker State third. Time, 2:35¼.

Second Heat Sucker State had the lead in this heat, with Dustin second. Mountain Maid passed Dustin at the quarter pole, but was in turn passed by Dustin at the half, who came rapidly up and passed Sucker State on the home stretch, but broke about fifty yards from the wire and was passed by Sucker State, who took the heat, with Dustin second and Mountain Maid third. Time, 2:40½.

Third Heat—The horses started with Dustin in the lead but he was soon passed by Sucker State. Dustin in turn passed Sucker State, winning the heat, Sucker State second, and Mountain Maid third. Time, 2:35¼.

Fourth Heat—The horses started with Dustin in the lead, which he maintained throughout, winning the heat easily with Sucker State second and Mountain Maid third. Time 2.34½. This gave Dustin the race, Sucker State second money and Mountain Maid third money.

The trotting race was called again and all the horses appeared, the crowd cheering heartily when Mr. Wilbur appeared, driving Teazer.

First Heat—The horses started all strung out with Elcho in the lead, which he kept very neatly, never once being passed, and winning the heat. The other horses maintained the positions in which they started, to-wit: Teazer second, Dan Brown third, and Big Ike fourth. Time 2.34½.

Second Heat—Elcho was again in the lead in the start and kept the lead for the full mile, the other horses keeping their starting positions, Elcho winning the heat, Dan Brown second, Teazer third and Big Ike fourth. Time 2.37.

Third Heat—Big Ike seemed to have a faculty of not getting up for this heat as in the previous ones. He was way back when they were sent off with Elcho, as usual, in the lead, but was passed on the backstretch on the second half by Big Ike who came up from way behind, and passed under the wire on a walk, doing so in order to let the rest of the horses stay in the race, for they would all have been distanced had he not done so. Big Ike got the heat, Elcho, second; Dan Brown, third; Teazer, fourth. Time, 2.40.

Fourth Heat—The horses started pretty well in this heat, Elcho going to the front and keeping the lead until the back stretch of the last half was reached when Big Ike came up and passed the lot with much ease, winning the heat, with Elcho second, and Teazer and Dan Brown distanced. Time, 2.36½.

Fifth Heat—Elcho took the lead in the start and was easily passed on the back stretch by Big Ike, who won the heat easily. Time 2.42. Big Ike, by winning this heat, also wins the race, Elcho getting second place and money.

The last race was a special race for runners, half mile heats, 2 in 3, with the following entries:

Gray Bet.
Little Dorrit.
Alice.

First Heat—Little Dorrit took the lead in the start, but was passed shortly by Gray Bet who kept the lead all the way, winning the heat easily. Time 1.04.

Second Heat—The horses started with Little Dorrit in the lead which he could not keep and was easily passed by Gray Bet, who won the heat and race easily, with Little Dorrit second and Alice third. Time 55½.

This closed the most successful day that the Colorado Industrial association has ever ever known.

FAIR NOTES.

First and second premiums were awarded Robert James for his beautiful exhibition of honey.

The ladies entered in the six-mile running race were on the track early this morning for practice.

An entire week of the finest weather has assisted in making the fair attendance an unusually large one.

To-morrow evening the stockholders will meet in adjourned session to elect trustees for the ensuing year.

If visitors desire to obtain an idea of the beauty and variety of the native and cultivated grasses of the state, the exhibit of Mrs. Levi Booth will afford the opportunity. Each variety is bunched by itself, and the specimens are very fine and tastily put together.

Careful inquiry by the appointing judges having secured authentic information that an arrangement had been made between the trainers of Little Barney and Grindstone previous to the race of Wednesday, the rider of Grindstone was reinstated and the two trainers dismissed the track.

Four Colorado-made corn planters are the only exhibit in the agricultural implement line. The total failure in this department is a subject of much comment, as this is supposed to be in a great degree an agricultural show. The same is true of mining machinery, a sluice box only being shown.

Almost every mine in the Gunnison country is represented at the fair. Probably this is the most complete collection from any of the many sections of the state. Ruby camp, Tin Cup, Sheep Mountain, Poverty and Washington gulches, Crested Butte, Goiltie, Cochetopa, White Pine, Tomichi, and other districts are there in full force. Some of the more famous mines, from which specimens are shown, are the Forest Queen, Ruby King, Ruby Chief, Sylvanite, Eureka, Luona, Lubricator, Sifter, Alice, St. Elmo, Jacob Stradi, North Star, Whopper, Betsy, Golden Slipper, Silver Queen, Cobalt, Jimmy Mack, Gold Cup, Tin Cup, Drew, Gold Line, Gold Link, Legal Tender, Fairview, Terrible and Silver Islet. Silver, gold, copper, nickel, lead and other metals are found in this district and have specimens on exhibit.

Deputy Sheriff Joe Tell went south last night on important official business.

Hon. W. S. Jackson was among the departures for Leadville on last night's express.

And possibly the government says we are too near to get the [illegible] perspective

A Countess in England has lately attempted to start the fashion of wearing dresses made from goods of English production It is claimed that if the ladies of the country will only unite in this matter there will be no trouble in giving the mills all the work of which they are capable.

There is no disguising the fact that the official bulletins do not give the whole truth There has never been anything said in them [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] it is now reported [illegible] [illegible] have been the cause of [illegible] It may be best that all the alarming symptoms are not known but to say that this or that trouble has at last passed when the people never knew there were such complications cannot tend to make them put much faith in the daily reports

The terrible law of suspects has been put in force again in Russia. This law is one of the most severe as it is one of the most despotic ever known. It provides that the government may arrest and imprison any one suspected of a crime against the state or against the czar A man is perhaps arrested, taken to Siberia, and never heard of or seen again by his family, simply because he is suspected There is no trial, no chance to say a word in self defense, but on the street or at home the arrest is made and the unhappy victim buried forever in some Siberian mill or dungeon

During 1878 1879 and 1880 we increased in population so fast that we do not realize the increase this year A look at the census returns impresses us with this increase Pueblo by the census had a population of [illegible] 217 and South Pueblo [illegible] These two cities now claim 15 000 people Animas City was the only settlement in La Plata county with a population of 286 Durango then unknown has a population of at least [illegible] The towns of Gunnison county only had a little over 5 000 population then but now have nearer [illegible] 000 Notwithstanding these new sections of the state have drawn heavily on the population of the older sections enough emigrants have come into these older settlements to enable them to more than hold their own

ENGLAND HERSELF AGAIN

The New York Tribune has an interesting notice of a debate in the house of commons a few days ago, in which Mr Gladstone administered a crushing rebuke to Mr Ashmead Bartlett Mr Bartlett had criticised the foreign policy of Mr Gladstone and praised the foreign policy of Disraeli It was a speech filled with the same arguments and ideas which Disraeli and Salisbury advanced in the upper house. The crushing reply which Mr Gladstone made was thoroughly appreciated and applauded by the house not so much because of its sarcasm, but because there had been a change in public sentiment Jingoism is no longer popular in England The hollow, tawdry patriotism of the last decade is disappearing, and in its place are sentiments worthy of the land of Milton and Hampden

This change must give pleasure to those who are in sympathy with the best traditions of the English people It is only three years since England arrayed herself on the side of a military tyranny, it cannot be called a government in the southwestern part of Europe. It was not worthy to be considered a European country because it had only encamped there and for over four countries maintained its foreign airs It has opposed every step of progress toward a higher civilization in Europe, and has tried to crush out all noble sentiments in the people among whom it placed its hostile camp It denied to these people the rights of property, and by systematic brigandage kept them poor By the most horrible butcheries it strove to crush out the Christian faith which had survived four centuries of persecution It regarded it [illegible] [illegible] to breathe the name of liberty No woman was respected nothing holy was sacred When the fortunes of war finally said to this mass of organized tyranny murder robbery and lust you must take your tents and go back to your own homes [illegible] appeared and said [illegible] [illegible] blasting the hopes of freedom of the oppressed Greeks in Thessaly and Epirus and [illegible] the fruits of victory to the brave Montenegrins and Bulgarians. Yet it did this and why? The jingo party said to uphold England's dignity and give her influence in European affairs This party thought England's dignity was worth more than [illegible] and was to be maintained at the expense of justice freedom, morality and Christianity For a time the English people were pleased by this policy strange as it may seem They wanted England to [illegible] a sort of [illegible] on the side of right or wrong And Disraeli after his return from the Berlin conference in making his great speech in the house of lords in which he [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] the blessings of liberty or maintain the great principle of justice embodied in the British constitution [illegible] what he had done for England's glory received an ovation which few of [illegible] of his time had received It is not pleasant to think of this —

But the scene has changed The [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] applauded three years ago are [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] or contempt It may be that we overestimate the [illegible] [illegible] but we prefer not to think so England has been a friend of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] England whatever [illegible] [illegible] class free in our [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] from our [illegible] [illegible] It is right that England [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in sympathy with her [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] civilization —

How They Feel

Huerfano Herald

EDITOR HERALD—We agree with your correspondent in a recent issue of the Herald that a question of such vital interest to all our citizens as the selection of a town to be the permanent capital of our state should be fully discussed in the state press so that an interchange of views among our citizens may be had before the election

For ourselves, while we admire the public spirit and energy of our fellow citizens of the Pueblos, we cannot agree with them that Pueblo is the best site for our state capital As a thriving commercial city possessing all the natural advantages that will make it in the near future the commercial metropolis of the whole Rocky Mountain region Pueblo has no rival, yet as a city possessing attractive surroundings so that with a small expenditure it can be made convenient and healthy for our legislators, business men and tourists in summer as well as winter, Pueblo does not come up to our ideal And we submit that Colorado Springs possesses in a greater degree than any other town, the advantages we speak of—beautiful, attractive, healthy and of central location—advantages that will make it a pride to our citizens and a credit to the state Again, Colorado Springs will attract thousands of votes that Pueblo will lose, while all who would vote for Pueblo will vote for Colorado Springs. With it the objective point of the campaign victory is already perched upon our banner while with Pueblo success is doubtful It is not necessary that the state capital should be a commercial metropolis for example see almost every other state in the Union Neither is a commercial metropolis dependent in the least on being the site of the state capital for its wealth and position If Pueblo did not possess the great natural advantages she does the location of the state capital there would not make her a metropolis Hence in our opinion Mr Editor, it would not be prejudicial to the interests of Huerfano county to have Colorado Springs selected as the state capital Political supremacy does not mean commercial supremacy, neither are commercial advantages dependent on political advantages They are necessarily separate and distinct, depending each upon their peculiar relation to circumstances and location Who believes that the location of the Missouri state capital at St Louis, instead of nearer the state center—Jefferson City—would give it more desirable commercial advantages? We believe it to be a question of convenience to the people of the whole state not necessarily to be regulated by anything else We wish to see it located nearer us than Denver, and we think Colorado Springs possesses advantages that Pueblo does not Those who believe in State unity we think will agree with us With Colorado Springs selected as a permanent state capital the question is forever settled, while should Pueblo succeed in getting the state house it may be the commencement of an agitation that will end only in the political secession of northern Colorado MANY CITIZENS

Parnell, the Agitator

Boston Herald

By his course on the Tyrone election Mr Parnell has covered himself with discredit, as with a garment His attempt to secure the defeat of the liberal candidate was a crowning example of political ingratitude In this case the course of the obstructive [illegible] [illegible] special [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] general arraignment American opinion cannot be too [illegible] in condemning the leader of the league for the irreconcilable attitude which he has adopted toward the liberal [illegible] By the passage of the land act Mr Gladstone had the tenant farmers of Ireland under obligations so distinct and weighty that they ought to have been undeniable The new law owes its existence to the personal influence wielded by the prime minister upon parliamentary opinion No other English statesman would have imagined that such a measure could be brought within the possibility of enactment And [illegible] [illegible] successful execution of this all but unimaginable [illegible] that was due entirely to the matchless adroitness as a legislator and the resplendent reputation as a reformer which the premier has drawn from a ministerial experience of forty seven years. But, aside from this strong claim established by the ministry for a suspension of agitation throughout Ireland there were special reasons which should have prevented the land leaguer from plotting against the return of a liberal candidate in Tyrone The vacancy was created expressly in behalf of the Irish tenant farmer Mr [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] appointment [illegible] of the land commissioner avowedly because he had been for many years conspicuous as an advocate of tenant right and Mr Dickson the liberal candidate for the succession is one of the warmest and ablest supporters of the tenant view of the land question to be found in the north of Ireland

Statistics [illegible] published concerning the inter communication of the various parts of the world give some very interesting information

In 1880 the number of letters sent by mail in all parts of the world was [illegible] 000 000. In 18[illegible] the number was increased to [illegible] 000 000 and [illegible] 11 000 000 a day, or [illegible] each second Of the [illegible] Europe contributed [illegible] 000 000 America 2 000 000 [illegible] [illegible] 000 000 Africa [illegible] 000 000 and Australia [illegible] 000 000 Taking the [illegible] [illegible] of the world population (1 400 000 000) as correct the average number of letters [illegible] [illegible] in the world sent by mail was three

These statistics also give the length of the [illegible] and land to [illegible] line [illegible] 400 miles In this is not included [illegible] cable [illegible] [illegible] There were 5 000 telegraph stations and the number of telegraph messages sent during the year was between 110 000 000 and 111 000 000 an average of [illegible] day, [illegible] an hour and [illegible] a minute

A conception of the value of the postal service and of the telegraph may be [illegible] from these figures and the use of both is increasing daily One wonders how in the world we ever got along without the advantages of the present day

SIDNEY LANIER.

Sketch of the Literary Career of the Poet and Scholar

Baltimore Sun September [illegible]

Mr Sidney Lanier the eminent poet scholar and litterateur died yesterday at Lynn Polk county, N C, of consumption in the [illegible]th year of his age He was a native of Macon Ga, his father being Mr Robert Lanier a prominent lawyer still residing in that city Mr Lanier studied law, and was admitted to the bar at an early age On account of weakness of the chest, which became so serious as to cause a hemorrhage at every forensic effort he relinquished the practice of law and devoted himself to literature, contributing for the columns of many prominent southern journals and magazines, among them the Southern Magazine, published in this city His earliest effort which attracted general attention was an imaginative and descriptive poem entitled "Corn" a romantic conception, following the growth and development of the Indian ear to its final ripe perfection Mr Lanier served in the confederate army, and was wounded in battle. In November, 1872, he went to San Antonio Texas, for the benefit of its climate, and experienced some relief from his lung troubles, and upon his return wrote a history of the place, which appeared in the Southern Magazine in the summer of 1873 In 1874 Mr Lanier removed to Baltimore, thinking the climate would agree with him and the larger community would afford him larger scope for literary work and also with a view to the advantage afforded the student by the libraries and institutions of Baltimore Soon after his arrival Mr Lanier attached himself to the Peabody Orchestra, taking the first flute His thorough mastery of the theory of music, as well as his admirable execution, made him a valuable acquisition to the orchestra. He was compelled in the fall of 18[illegible] to migrate southward and spent the winter in Florida, and in the following year his work appeared entitled "Florida its Scenery, Climate and History with an Account of Charleston, Savannah, Augusta and Aiken, a Chapter for Consumptives and Various Papers on Fruit Culture" He continued to contribute to the columns of various magazines in prose and poetry, the latter attracting much attention When the Philadelphia centennial committee decided to procure a poem from a southern author and one from the north for the opening ceremonies of the exhibition Mr Lanier was invited to compose an ode on the part of the south, and John G Whittier contributed a hymn The ode beginning "From this hundred terraced height," was a stirring composition of great merit, but owing to its being written with a view to develop the sense of the poem in unison with the musical idea of the composer was criticised when read as a simple poem removed from the conditions under which it was intended to be rendered Mr Lanier's answer to the critics was generally accepted and the unique character of the work recognized The prominence thus given him created a great demand for the productions of Mr Lanier's pen and he contributed frequently to Scribner's Monthly and other prominent publications Mr Lanier [illegible] conceived the idea of presenting some of the old chivalrous stories in a form suitable for youthful readers The plan was approved by Messrs Scribner & Co and he then published "The Boy's Froissart" in which he gave some of the most stirring events of the fourteenth century in connection with the wars between England and France The success of the "Froissart" led to the publication in 1880 of the "Boy's King Arthur" Sir Thomas Mallory's [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] other [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and somewhat modernized [illegible] [illegible] preserving as much [illegible] [illegible] of their [illegible] quaintness Mr Lanier had [illegible] completed the "Boy's [illegible]" a condensation of a series of letters [illegible] [illegible] by various members of the [illegible] family in the reign of Henry VII and giving a very lively and at times a very affecting picture of the domestic life of that period During his last illness Mr Lanier was engaged upon the "Boy's Mabinogion" a condensation and adaptation of a remarkable collection of Welsh legends and tales preserved in manuscript called the "Red Book of Hergest" and translated in full by Lady Charlotte Guest of England In [illegible] [illegible] Mr Lanier was appointed lecturer at Johns Hopkins University, and the course of lectures he gave that session related to the principles of English versification as exemplified in the works of Shakspere The substance of these lectures was considerably amplified and published in a book entitled "The Science of English Verse" in which he endeavored to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for English [illegible] In 1880 he delivered another course of lectures on English literature In 1880 he delivered a [illegible] of lectures on English poetry [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] In [illegible] [illegible] Mr Lanier, accompanied by Mrs Lanier and family left Baltimore to camp out for the summer in the uplands of North Carolina locating near Asheville He was hopeful that the tonic effect of the pine forests and open air life of the camp would stay the progress of his disease but his hopes were not realized Mr Lanier who survives her husband was Miss Mary Day of Macon Ga Four children are living all boys the youngest an infant Mr Clifford Lanier a brother of the deceased, who was an occasional collaborer in his literary work survives A warm personal friendship existed between Mr Lanier and the late Bayard Taylor and he was strongly attached to Prof Henry W Longfellow Oliver Wendell Holmes and other prominent literary men Though for years a great sufferer Mr Lanier was never heard to complain being always cheerful He had just reached a perfectly safe literary position and an enviable fame when his health gave way His kindness of heart and amiability of character endeared him to all with whom he came in contact and made him many friends in Baltimore who though [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] prepared for the news of his death by the long standing decline of his health will receive the announcement with feelings of profound [illegible] Mr Lanier's literary work was characterized by great refinement of [illegible] and delicate perception of beauty and harmony [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in some of his productions which rendered them [illegible] widely A Correction

It will be remembered that last spring we published a communication from Farmington New Mexico, giving an account of the depredations being committed by the Stockton gang in that locality The following letter sent to the Durango Southwest denies some of the facts set forth in that communication

FARMINGTON, N M, September 9

Editor Southwest

DEAR SIR—Will you allow me space in your paper to correct a false report that appeared in the New Mexican of Santa Fe and the GAZETTE of Colorado Springs, setting forth that I M Pierce a merchant of Farmington, New Mexico, had been run off by a mob and that they had confiscated and destroyed a stock of goods amounting to eight thousand dollars and that Pierce had to pay $200 to get his family away from Farmington Now as I have lately learned of this falsehood and misrepresentation to the people I state for myself that I never was run off neither had I any goods destroyed I sold the goods and got the money for them My reason for going away was that I expected to go east, but gave it up when I got to Durango on account of so much snow The people of Farmington, since I have returned and resumed business have treated me with respect and kindness by their liberal patronage They are all feeling happy over their fine crops of corn, wheat, potatoes squash and in fact all kinds of vegetables after a hard summer's work Hoping you will allow this space in your paper, I remain respectfully J M PIERCE

Wal! Wal! Wal! Here I are agin before the publick! An' it's only case sircumstanses kompels me to speak out, that I can overkum mi "nateral modesty" sufficient to allow me to kum to the front once more to advocate the klaims which mi "stoppin' place," so to speak, haz upon the publick. You all know what that is, an' if you don't it's time you was finding out, for if you are hunery that's no place in this ere town half way kumpared with the "Grand Kenney Restaurant" as a place to git rail first class meals. The enterprisin' young proprietor has been doin' quite a good deal of free advertisin fur the "crack cooks, so to speak, but he's found it necessary to keep sittin' till at last he's "struck ile." An' ef mi tellin' o' you don't konvince you, drop in thar an' try a meal at his place on Pike's Peak ave., just west o' Tejohn st., an' I warrant yu, that afore yu are half dun the good things tha'l bring yu, yu'll "guv 't up."

With ease of mind and konshunce,
I am yours reverentially,
